British Constable Becomes Kingdom's Hero For Saving Monarch From Assassin's Bullet

LONDON, July 17 — (UP) — Special Constable Anthony Gordon Dick, 36, travelling salesman and former Navy stoker, became a national hero today officially affirmed as the man to whom King Edward owes his life.

It was Dick who first saw George Andrew McMahon, 34, eccentric journalist, aim a pistol at King Edward as the young monarch led a parade of his foot guardsmen down Constitution Hill. Dick sprang unhesitatingly on McMahon, knocked the pistol from his hand with a backhand blow, and grappled with him, facing the gaping muzzle of the assassin's weapon.

It took Scotland Yard nearly 24 hours to get the real story of the attempt to kill the most popular king in the world. But today Dick was lionized throughout the United Kingdom.

Honored With King

He took it modestly, and sharing honors with him was King Edward, who from the moment he glanced from his charge over his left shoulder to see the pistol aimed at him gave no sign that he considered the incident anything but part of the job of a King, for which he had been grommed since birth.

Dick, after seeing McMahon safely in custody, rushed off to his work; the King did a bit of work and went out to play golf.

Dick and the King went about their normal activities today. McMahon, the third figure in the drama enacted in the space of a crowded minute yesterday, fidgeted in his cell, almost tearfully protesting that he really meant no harm to King Edward.

But Dick was the center of interest today while suggestions were made for a ceremony of national thanksgiving for the King's escape and authorities considered what to do with McMahon.

Dick lives with his wife in Charter road, Woodford Green, Essex, in the suburbs. He is one of the 16,000 special volunteer constables who aid the metropolitan police at big ceremonies and in time of emergency.

It was understood that Lieut. Col. Sir Percy Laurie, assistant commissioner of Scotland Yard, telephoned L. V. Dawe, commandant of J division of the constab-

MAN IS HUNTED IN GIRL DEATH

Short, Stocky Assailant Seen Vaulting Railing

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 17 — (UP) — A mysterious short and stocky man who vaulted a fashionable hotel railing and disappeared into the darkness was sought by police today in connection with the slaying of pretty Helen Clevenger, 19-year-old New York university honor student.

From hotel guests and employees, it was learned that a man was seen leaning against the party-open door of the girl's room shortly after police believe she was attacked and shot.

Miss Clevenger's body, clad in green silk pajamas, was found on the floor of the room by her uncle, W. L. Clevenger, whom she had accompanied on a mountain vacation tour. She had been stabbed in the face with a sharp instrument, believed to have been a pair of scissors.

NEW SCHEDULE ARRANGED FOR PENSION MONEY

COLUMBUS, July 17 — (UP) — A change in the payment schedule of old age pensions was announced here today by State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy.

Tracy said a night clerical staff was to be added to facilitate the work of making 86,000 payments monthly and that it was expected it would enable them to mail checks approximately on the first of each month instead of the fifteenth.

The new plan will be effective in August.

OHIO'S AUDITORS FORCED TO SEEK DELINQUENT TAX

Assembly Passes Measure Ordering Officials to Advertise Defaulters

A new measure making it mandatory for county auditors to publish in newspapers lists of delinquent personal and real estate taxes and requiring county treasurers, commencing in 1938, to mail out tax bills will become law in Ohio as soon as Governor Martin L. Davey attaches his signature.

Action on the bill, submitted by Senator Paul Yoder, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, was taken in both houses Thursday, both voting their approval. The senate, since the bill originated there, passed it first, then the house concurred. Both Pickaway county representatives in the assembly, Senator Paul Gingham in the senate and Representative Clark Hunsicker in the house, supported the measure.

Publication of delinquent tax lists is certain to result in a great reduction in the amount of unpaid taxes now standing on Pickaway county's books.

At the time the last distribution of tax money was made by Auditor Forrest Short the delinquent charge against real estate was $127,039.97 in Pickaway county. Delinquent personal taxes were not listed.

No official action has been taken in Pickaway county to collect the delinquencies.

Cromley, county party leaders, attended a meeting in the garden of the governor's home at which time Mr. Davey outlined his plans. ## BRIDE, 15, TAKES LIFE IN FEAR OF PRISON THREAT

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 17 — (UP) — A threat by her 60-year-old husband to send her to the state reformatory today was blamed for the suicide yesterday of Mrs. Mildred Wheeler, 15, a bride of a month.

Tom A. Wheeler, the husband, told officials his wife had been going with younger men and that he had warned her he would take steps to have her committed to an institution. Yesterday he reported the case to juvenile court authorities and then told his bride what he had done.

Mrs. Wheeler a short time later went to her room, tied a string to the trigger of a small rifle and shot herself. She died within a few minutes.

Officials said Mrs. Minnie Shipley, mother of the girl, had sanctioned the marriage because she felt it was a good match. Wheeler is employed by the WPA.

Mrs. Wheeler was the third suicide here yesterday and the eighth in a week. Dr. Forrest Thomas, coroner, said most of the suicides had occurred in the late afternoon when the heat was most intense. He believes most of the suicides are the indirect result of the heat.

MRS. CREIGHTON, APPLIGATE PAY IN DEATH CHAIR

Sing Sing Prison in New York Scene of Double Execution

PLOTTER UNCONSCIOUS

Lives Taken for Poison Death of Veteran's 300-pound Wife

OSSINING, N. Y., July 17 — (UP) — Mrs. Mary Frances Creighton died in the electric chair last night without ever seeing the death chamber.

The woman who had poisoned another woman and delivered her own 15-year-old daughter to an elderly lover who had tired of her, fainted of fright 30 minutes before she was executed. She rode to death in a wheel chair, unconscious, and felt nothing when 2,000 volts of electricity ended her life.

Nine minutes after two guards lifted her body out of the electric chair, with a wisp of smoke still rising from the spot where an electrode had burned her hair, her former lover, Everett Applegate, died in the same seat.

Slew Applegate's Wife

The two were convicted of murdering Applegate's wife, a woman of 300 pounds but Mrs. Creighton's friend, so that Applegate might marry Mrs. Creighton's daughter, Ruth. The Applegates and Creightons live in the same house in Minneola.

Applegate, who a year ago was the commander of an American Legion post and an employee of the Federal Veterans' bureau, met his death in a fashion sharply contrasted to the terror that paralyzed Mrs. Creighton. His last words while seated in the electric chair were:

"Before I die I say I am innocent of this crime. God have mercy on Martin Littleton of Nassau County."

Littleton is the district attorney who prosecuted him.

Mrs. Creighton showed no life whatever when two guards rolled her wheel chair into the death chamber. Twenty-four official witnesses.

CORPORATION WHISTLE DISRUPTS NOON HOUR

Did you check your watch Friday morning when the whistle blew at the Container Corporation, before discovering there was something wrong.

At 10:30 a. m. an engineer at the plant looked at his timepiece, thought it was 11:30, and blew the dinner hour whistle.

Residents on downtown streets checked their watches, and at first believed there had been an accident at the plant or a change in shifts.

Officials explained it was just an error.

JURY CONDEMNS WOMAN SLAYER, FREES ANOTHER

"Marble Mildred," Who Said Cook County Didn't Convict, to Die

CHICAGO, July 17 — (UP) — Mrs. Mildred Mary Bolton and Mrs. Pauline Drummond, who killed their husbands, faced opposite fates today.

A jury of 11 married men and a bachelor ordered the death penalty for dry-eyed, hennaed Mrs. Bolton. A coroner's jury set Mrs. Drummond free.

Both women admitted the shootings. Their reactions were as different as their penalties.

Mrs. Bolton earned the nickname "Marble Mildred" when she calmly proclaimed that "they don't convict women in Cook county for killing their husbands."

She became, last night, the first woman in the county's history to be sentenced to the electric chair.

Mrs. Drummond sobbed tearfully that she wanted to die for her deed. A coroner's jury decided that the death of her husband was "accidental."

Mrs. Bolton has refused to name her relatives, hoping frankly that she could keep them from knowing of her predicament. In contrast, Mrs. Drummond's father-in-law, George Drummond, attended the inquest and remarked that the jury's verdict was "just."

ASSASSIN KILLS DEPUTY SHERIFF

Roanoke, Va. Murder Scene Early in Morning

ROANOKE, Va., July 17 — (UP) — A shotgun blast, fired by occupants of a black sedan, killed Deputy Sheriff Clarence Simmons early today as he drove home from work.

Simmons, with another deputy, C. E. Boone, left the sheriff's office in Salem about 2 a. m.

The officers were driving slowly along a lonely road, seven miles south of here, laughing and chatting and bound for home. Simmons, who was driving, saw the lights of another machine in his rear view mirror. He called it to Boone's attention it was coming fast.

Suddenly there was a roaring explosion. Simmons slumped forward on the wheel. The machine plunged into a ditch, and bumped to a stop.

Boone discovered that his companion's head was virtually torn away by shot. A hole in the rear window showed where the shotgun charge had entered. The sedan sped away in the darkness.

HEAT EXPECTED TO COVER ALL CENTRAL REGION

Three States Face New Danger as Forest Fires Sweep Huge Areas

ONTARIO SEEKS CONVICT

Indiana Receives Some Relief as Scattered Showers are Reported

The temperature in Circleville Thursday failed to reach 100 degrees, the first time in nearly two weeks. At that time it was only one degree under the century mark, 99 degrees.

CHICAGO, July 17.

(UP) — Another hot weekend was forecast today for the parched middlewest.

Only a few scattered showers in the extreme northern fringe of the drought district will relieve the blistering heat that has taken at least 4,200 lives and caused more than $600,000,000 damage to crops, farm buildings and livestock, the weather bureau reported.

It was the start of the third week of intense heat in the furnace-like Dakotas where government relief programs have put thousands of drought-stricken farmers to work.

"There will be no rain in the north central states except in eastern North Dakota, northern Minnesota, western upper Michigan, and extreme northern Wisconsin," Lloyd said. "Thundershowers were falling over those areas this morning but they will not bring enough moisture to do much good."

Many States Affected

Lloyd forecast a continuation of hot, fair weather through Sunday in the southern part of Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas.

It was hot again today in the lower Missouri valley, the middle and upper Mississippi valley, and the lower Ohio valley.

A Lake Michigan breeze kept the temperature in the low 80's in Chicago but western suburbs suffered with the thermometer at least 10 degrees higher.

Light rains softened the ground in central and southern Indiana and made scorched fields more susceptible to moisture. Crop experts said hard rains would run off the fields without doing any material good.

Forest Fires Raging

Forest fires in northern Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota were believed under control but in northern Ontario some 300 fires were burning along a 700-mile front from Sudbury to Port Arthur. Rangers sought an escaped reformatory convict, apparently crazed by heat and smoke, whom they believe is setting new brush fires in the district.

Coughlin's Attack on Roosevelt Splits Dr. Townsend's Followers

SOUTHWESTERN OFFICIAL IRATE

National Leader Orders
Gomer Smith Fired, But
Action is Delayed

PUBLIC HALL, CLEVELAND, July 17—(UP)—The Old Age pension plan pledged to provide $200-a-month for everyone after 60 years of living spun today in the whirlpool of internal dispute encountered midway in the second annual Townsend clubs annual convention.

Leaders are angry and fighting among themselves. One group represents the prominence given to Father Charles E. Coughlin and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith — share-our-wealth leader—for their attacks on President Roosevelt.

For defending Mr. Roosevelt against the priest and the preacher, Townsend club National Vice-President Gomer Smith of Oklahoma has been sentenced by Dr. Francis E. Townsend to expulsion from office. Execution was scheduled for 7:30 o'clock last night, but was mysteriously postponed as other opponents of Father Coughlin and the Rev. Gerald Smith hastened to the vice-president's assistance.

Calling Mr. Roosevelt "liar," "betrayer" and "double-crosser," a shirt-sleeved, perspiring and persuasive Father Coughlin yesterday stamped the Townsendites to informal endorsement of the Union party presidential candidacy of William Lemke. The Rev. Mr. Smith joined the parade, and Dr. Townsend, co-founder and owner of Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., marched in the bolt to Lemke and his new party.

Follows Coughlin

"Do you subscribe to Father Coughlin's statement that Mr. Roosevelt is a liar, betrayer and double-crosser?" Dr. Townsend was asked in press conferences after the tumultuous convention day which witnessed the priest's attack and Vice-President's Gomer Smith's reply.

"I subscribe to it," Townsend replied.

Distressed and angered by their leader's alignment with Father Coughlin and the Rev. Mr. Smith, a group of National Townsend directors planned today or tomorrow to force a convention vote on endorsement of the Lemke third party.

Rev. Smith as Townsend Speaker

DESCRIBING Dr. Townsend as "the Moses of the twentieth century," the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, who has tried to carry on the late Huey Long's share-the-wealth organization and who now is linked with the Townsend movement, addresses the delegates at the second annual convention of the Townsend Old Age Revolving Pension organization in Cleveland.

They insisted that a count of heads would show a large majority against merging the Townsend organization with any political party this year.

But Dr. Townsend, who can do no wrong in the eyes of many of the thousands of delegates here reaching for recovery through pensions for the aged, already has announced plans to barn-storm the country for the Lemke ticket. He will travel and speak with Father Coughlin, the Rev. Mr. Gerald Smith and Lemke, their candidate, who will appear here Sunday, probably to make a public pledge in support of the Townsend plan. On their tentative schedule are Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco. This convention is warping under stress of conflicting interests.

These interests include:

1. The Citizens Maximi group, representing each state.
2. Father Coughlin-Gerald Smith allies, who are boosting Lemke and striving principally to prevent Townsend votes for Roosevelt this year.
3. The national board of directors, which is shortly to be made subservient to the Citizens Maximi.
4. Democratic Townsendites and a sprinkling of Republicans who fear a coalition with Father Coughlin, Smith and Lemke will wreck their own party organizations back home. The background of dispute is 5,000 or 6,000 delegates, convinced that $200 a month is just around the corner.

FAIRFIELD POST OF LEGION SETS EVENT JULY 26

J. Ray Murphy, National Chief, to Make Principal Address

LANCASTER, July 17—A street parade, featuring 10 drum and bugle corps, will be one of the high spots of the district American Legion convention in Lancaster, July 26.

One hundred dollars in prizes will be awarded to the three corps presenting the best appearance as well as a $10 prize to the best color guard firing squad.

Another feature of the one-day affair will be the appearance here of National Commander J. Ray Murphy, who is scheduled to address the convention in the afternoon at a public meeting. Milton Campbell, Cincinnati, state commander and other Legion notables also will speak.

Expect 2,000 Vets

The parade will be held at 4:30 p. m. and in the evening at 7:30 p. m. the National Commander's banquet will be held at the Elks' Home.

Between 2,000 and 3,000 Legionnaires of the 8th district comprising southeastern Ohio counties are expected to attend the convention.

Registration will start at 9 a. m. at the Legion home on East Main street.

FRENCH GRUNTER THROWS DANNON, CLAIMS HONORS

MONTREAL, Que., July 17 — (UP)—Yvon Robert, 21-year-old French-Canadian, wore a $10,000 diamond studded champion's belt around his waist today and a figurative crown on his head.

Danno O'Mahoney, one claimant to the world wrestling championship, forfeited the claim and the diamond belt last night when he lost a two to one fall decision to the French-Canadian. Robert is the first Canadian ever to attain championship heights and a crowd of 10,500, the greatest to witness a wrestling match in Montreal since 1910, belled a deafening approval.

Pandemonium broke out when Robert, without the aid of the referee, raised his arm in championship style. Floyd Marshall, Chicago, former titleholder, rushed into the ring and took a crack at Referee Dan Murray. Robert's second took on where he left off and a show greater than the Robert-O'Mahoney match was on. Police, spectators and officials crowded into the ring. Robert, flushed with one victory, joined the battle and laid low more opponents than he has in several weeks. O'Mahoney lay prone on the carpet. Police cleared the ring after 10 minutes.

COOPER OPENS DEFENSE OF HIS ST. PAUL TITLE

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 17 — (UP)—Harry Cooper, most consistent American golfer of 1936, opened defense of his $5,000 St. Paul open championship today under a blazing sun that lacquered the famous Keller course with a rolling, glassy surface.

A field expected to mount higher than 150 challenged Lighthouse Harry at the starting line of the first 18-hole round scheduled today. The open a 72-hole medal play stake, ends Sunday.

Among the favorites for the title Cooper has won three times in the six year history of the tournament was Tony Manero, U. S. open champion, who fired the "million dollar" finish that withered Cooper's brilliant card in their duel at Baltusrol.

DERRINGER, VAN MUNGO MEET IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, July 17—(UP)—Two of the National league's ace right-handers, Paul Derringer and Van Mungo, were to be the opposing pitchers here today as the Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers play the final game of their series here today.

The Reds and Dodgers were idle yesterday.

Following today's contest, the Reds play a three game series with the New York Giants before they swing east Sunday night.

TO THE WATER COMPANY

UTILITY MEN: Announcement at council meeting Wednesday evening that water lines would be extended to serve more Circleville residents is heard with much satisfaction. A utility often builds good will through its willingness to serve the community it represents. It is true the council is studying the possibility of purchasing your plant and distributing system, but that will come a long while from now, if then. You can provide much service to your patrons between now and that time.

TO BERGER NURSES

LADIES: In the last two weeks you have been called on to prove the value of your hospital to the community it serves. Numerous emergency cases have been put into your care with no notice, but you have come through with colors flying, proving the ability of your profession. Not every day, but often, this expression is heard on the streets of Circleville: "What would we do without our hospital?"

TO CITY RESIDENTS

FOLK: Enjoy an evening at the Canal recreational park. You will be surprised at the numerous changes that have been made "on the old canal." The park is a splendid place to hold a picnic and outing. There is good swimming, with WPA life guards on duty during the afternoon and evening, and nice catches of fish have been taken from the stocked waters.

TO SERVICE DIRECTOR

DEAR SIR: I suggest you notify the owner of the vacant lot at the intersection of Pickaway street and the Ringgold pike to have the weeds cut. These weeds prevent a clear view of the intersection and may cause an accident.

TO RETAIL MERCHANTS

GENTLEMEN: The extensive sales program your organization has outlined for the balance of 1936 is certain to increase the city's trading area if the project is properly planned and managed. Merchants should start preparing for these sales at once, select the proper seasonable items, and do everything in their power to interest customers in Circleville stores. Every merchant should join the organization and take part in this "city booster" program.

CIRCUITEER

TO CITIZENS, MERCHANTS

DEAR FOLK: Plan to attend the meeting councilmen have arranged for next Tuesday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. They want your views on the new light rate schedules to prepare recommendations to the company. Councilmen may hear some radical expressions, but the purpose of the meeting is to obtain general opinions from consumers. It is the duty of citizens and merchants to help councilmen work out such problems. Public meetings are always interesting and usually many things are accomplished.

TO COMMISSIONERS

DEAR SIRS: Circleville's city building is being cleaned and dressed up by WPA workers. Councilmen boosted the project, and it was soon under way. You have a similar project on file for the courthouse but from all indications the board has done very little promotion, at least not in recent months. I have heard many persons remark about the condition of the ceilings and walls in the building. They are badly in need of repair and have been bad for some time.

CIRCUITEER

TO COUNCILMEN

GENTLEMEN: You made an unexpected, but wise move Wednesday evening when you instructed the safety director to purchase a new car for the police department. The department has been handicapped for months with a worn-out automobile. Without a radio, officers in the car had no means of keeping in touch with the local office or the state patrol headquarters. Money spent on better equipment for the police and fire departments is well spent.

TO DEMOCRATIC WOMEN

DEAR LADIES: Now that you have selected your new chairman and executive board for the year, I hope that the Democratic women of the county will, in large numbers, take an active part in your organization. You had a splendid turn-out Wednesday evening. Harmony and active work on your part will help materially to win the fall election. Get busy and do your part.

TO MAYOR GRAHAM

DEAR SIR: Lost, the city's historic circle at Court and Main streets. Torrid heat melting the tar in the paving has obliterated the circle. I hope some additional cream-colored bricks are added to the design this fall and arrangements made to remove the excess tar.

CHAPTER 47

"CHOCOLATE SODA on white bread," Joan said to the waitress and peeled off her gloves in Schmidt's.

"What!" The waitress had heard of funny combinations but this topped them.

"I beg your pardon," Joan came out of her trance and corrected herself thinking it didn't matter what she had. "The only thing she wanted was to find peace and an opportunity to think things out."

Between sips of the tasteless drink she marshaled her thoughts. She had introduced Sheila to Win. She had told Sheila that Win was married. That wouldn't make any difference to Sheila but it would to Win.

For, however badly Win had loved her, he had done it only because it was the only thing to do. She had no reason to think that he would be intrigued with Sheila. He was married only a few months. He had intimated that his wife was jealous. He had intimated that he still cared for Joan.

Savagely she bit into the straw. Of course, he didn't care for her. And why should she care what Sheila and Win did? What right had she to be jealous?

At last she had resolved her problem and as usual, in her own reasoning, she arrived at the conclusion that she was the only one who was out of step. It was her own jealousy that had made her read into a situation something that was not there.

give a supper party for Sheila after the show. They wanted an extra girl. Joan was invited and Julian insisted that she accept.

She hadn't been out for weeks, he insisted, and it was no pleasure for her to stay in and play cribbage with an old man.

"Quitter," she accused. "You want to practice secretly because I'm ahead in our tournament."

But she went and was surprised to find Sheila arriving with Win. She didn't know the Brandts she knew. Therefore Sheila must have asked to have him invited. And why not? He was young and very attractive. His name may have popped into her mind.

The Brandts gave the party at the Marseilles, the most popular supper club of the moment.

Joan danced with Bob Brandt and came back to the table to find that Win had left Sheila's side and was sitting in the chair next to her own. She was chatting to a man on her right when Win said, "Let's go, Joan. I'm taking you home."

"But you can't take her away," Mary Brandt protested. "We're going to Harlem later and we want her to stay."

"They had been there less than an hour."

"Sorry," he said, reaching back for Joan's wrap. "Harlem is strictly out for little girls who have to get up early in the morning and for hard-working medics. Ready, Joan?"

Joan didn't know that she was ready but it seemed she was. She found her wrap slipped about her shoulders and her gloves in hand.

Without thinking, she looked toward Sheila who was absorbed in conversation with her host.

"He's right," she said, chiefly because she was tired and anxious to get home and get some sleep. "Thank you so much for having me. It was a grand party."

Instead of guiding her through the maze of tables while the others were dancing, Win waited until the music had stopped. Then he took her straight across the dance floor.

"Excuse me a sec," he said when they reached the curtained doorway. "I'll be right back."

She saw him walk to one of the wall tables and stop for a moment to speak to a stunning girl and an older man. Then he came back to her.

She preceded him through the doorway to the crowded elevator. At the door below the checkroom girl gave him his top hat.

"Hope you didn't mind waiting," he said, when they were finally in a taxi. "I..."

Joan stifled a yawn. "That's all right. I've rather gotten in the habit of going to bed early and I was glad to get away. Were you really so bored?"

She remembered how they used to go dancing so many years before. Driving miles around the countryside in her old car to find any place that there was a dance floor and music.

"A legitimate excuse for taking you in my arms," he used to say. Joan wondered whether she were getting old. She was too tired to think of ever doing a thing like that again or ever feeling that way.

She stole a sidelong glance at Win sitting beside her and looking so handsome in tails and white tie, his top hat perched so jauntily on his crisp blonde head. But at that moment the old catch in her throat was missing. He just looked like a good-looking young man. Not HER Win. She stifled another yawn.

"Hope I'm not keeping you up," he said politely.

"Oh, not a bit. Nice party, wasn't it?"

"Divine," he said, in precisely the same tone. "And wasn't the music splendid and did you think the dance floor was superb or was I dancing in special form tonight?"

"I don't know," she answered. "You didn't dance with me."

"Didn't I?" He seemed to be striving to match her bored flippancy and didn't quite make it.

"No," she answered, "you didn't. And hastily, 'Not that it mattered. Dancing is one of those things. But it rather surprised me that you were so anxious to take me home.'"

"Always gallant," he said quickly. "Not always," she said soberly. "There was an obvious silence for the next few moments."

"Didn't you recognize the lady I stopped to speak to?" he asked at the point when Joan was finding it a trifle difficult.

"No. Should I?" She was making an effort to be sociable.

"Rather. It was my wife."

"Oh!"

She didn't say another word until the taxi drew up at her door.

"Good night, Win," she said, with what was left of her voice.

How Trouble Occurs in Kidney Functioning

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WE SAW yesterday that in its essentials the kidney is an organ where the blood vessels break up into a set of loops, so that all the blood in the body is spread out over a surface of 67 square feet, and into this lake there dip and coil tubules of kidney cells (which, when stretched out, are estimated to be 280 miles long), which remove waste products from the blood stream and carry them off in the urine.

It is as if each kidney cell were a little man with a pump or vacuum cleaner which he dipped into a blood stream polluted with all the waste products of food and tissue breakdown, and the pumps or vacuum cleaners were selective in their action on these wastes and pumped them out.

With this picture in mind, it is easy to visualize the way that trouble may occur in the function of the kidneys. One simple thing is that it may happen that there is just too much deleterious waste product formed for the kidney to excrete all of it. This happens in acute poisoning of any kind and also when, in the course of bodily functions, there is a diminution of the alkali reserve and acid products accumulate in large enough quantities to justify the term, acidosis.

One of the most important functions of the kidney is to maintain the acid-alkali balance of the body by eliminating acids. The urine is normally acid in reaction as a result of this function.

A second way in which the functions of the kidney can fail is following the thickening of the wall of the arteries. The tuft of artery that spread the blood out in a thin film for the kidney cells to work on has normally very thin walls so the waste materials can go through. If the arterial wall thickens, there will be a corresponding difficulty in this exchange. Of course, the arteries all over the body thicken also, so the kidney trouble is only part of the general condition, which includes high blood pressure and heart damage. The process is very chronic, painless and may go on unnoticed for years.

Change Causes Inefficiency

Finally, if any change occurs in the kidney cells lining the little blood vessels—if the man at the pump or vacuum cleaner fails—there will be a reduction in kidney efficiency, amounting to complete failure sometimes. These cells are particularly sensitive to certain chemicals; for instance, mercury and mercury poisoning, whether accidental or deliberate for suicidal purposes, is always accompanied by these kidney changes. The cells are also particularly sensitive to certain infections—for instance, scarlet fever—and for that reason the little patient with scarlet fever is especially watched on that score.

If the waste products are not eliminated, they naturally accumulate in the blood, each with its special manifestation. Thus, if water is not removed, it accumulates in the tissues in the form of dropsy.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 30 cents in coin, mercury and mercury poisoning, whether accidental or deliberate for suicidal purposes, is always accompanied by these kidney changes. DUE TO West's optimism, East played an overhigh contract of 6-Spades, on the hand shown. By very clever strategy declarer fulfilled his contract. The opening lead was the K of clubs, requiring the immediate play of dummy's Ace. By stripping hands, then giving South his Q of clubs at the tenth trick, that player was obliged to permit dummy to ruff and declarer to discard his last club, thus enabling East to make 6-odd. This should not have been. Let's see why. We will have declarer play precisely as he did, but the defense will vary.

CLEVELAND INDIANS SHOW REVERSAL OF FORM TO TAKE SECOND PLACE

STERN NINES ALL AS O'NEILL MEN PLAY BALL

Indians Increase Lead as Dizzy Dean Fails; White Sox Speeding

NEW YORK, July 17.—(UP)—Steve O'Neill's erratic Cleveland Indians have staged their most successful road trip of the season, winning seven out of eight games in the east, and today loomed as the team for the New York Yankees to beat out for the American League pennant.

The unpredictable Indians, after apparently folding up, have come back with a brilliant drive that has lifted them from fifth to second place in the standings. They are still a long way behind the Yankees—nine and one half games—but are not out of the race by any means.

Win Six in Row

And the Indians didn't have any mishaps when they came east. They took two out of three against the Yankees, then dropped down to Boston to mop up a three game series against Tom Yawkey's "Gold Sox." Their last two wins, over the Philadelphia Athletics, gave them six straight victories.

The only club that has shown anything like the class of the Indians for the last 10 days is the Chicago White Sox. Jimmy Dykes' men have won six out of their eight eastern games, taking three series in succession. They won two out of three against each the Yankees and Red Sox, and then knocked the Washington Senators out of the first division by taking the first two tilts of their three game series.

TWO OIL TEAMS TO START RACE

Cities Service and Given
Crews Play Monday; All-
Stars Win

Cities Service Oils and Given Oils will play off the lid of the second half of the softball league scheduled Monday evening on Southern Ohio Electric Co. field.

The remainder of the week's schedules includes:

Tuesday: Circleville Oils vs. Eschelman Feeds.

Wednesday: Pickaway Dairy vs. Eagles.

Thursday: Cities Service Oils vs. Circleville Oils.

Friday: Given Oils vs. Pickaway Dairy.

The second half schedule has been drawn by Secretary Joe Glitt.

Feeds To Be Ready

A meeting of the managers was held Thursday evening at which time Carl Purcell, manager of the Eschelman Feeds, promised that he would have a full team on the field for every game in the half. The Eschelman outfit was inconsistent in the first round, forfeiting several games because a full team was not presented in time to play. Purcell says his team will be present and a contender for the title.

Several player changes are being contemplated between Friday and the day for the opening of the league race. There is no restriction on trades or releases, but no player, according to the rules is permitted to quit one team to join another. There must be a mutual understanding between the managers of the two teams involved.

The All-Stars defeated the Circleville Oils in a loose 16 to 19 game played Thursday evening as a benefit for Clydus Faunaugh, injured Pickaway Dairy athlete.

Lots Of Fun

Both aggregations had a lot of fun, but the baseball played was far below par. The oils presented a patched-up lineup with only five regulars playing. On the All-Star team were Roby ss, Watts 3b, Butler, rf, Eby cf, Smalley lf, M. Davis 2b, W. Jones 1b, Thompson c, Callahan p, Purcell p.

OLYMPIC GROUP SPEEDS ITS CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

NEW YORK, July 17.—(UP)—Pledging itself not to rest until Olympic athletes had been reimbursed for their expenses to compete for America in the Berlin Games, the New York Olympic committee today made a nation wide plea for funds.

The committee does not believe that America as a nation should boast of its Olympic team, the largest and strongest in history, "until as a nation, America has done its part."

The statement was made by Admiral Richmond P. Hobson, committee chairman, after a radio-gram from Avery T. Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee aboard the Manhattan with the team, saying that the fund was still $50,000 short—$25,000 in debts and $25,000 to fulfill requirements.

About This And That In Many Sports

Golfers to Dayton

Tod Thompson and Johnny Mader will play in another pro-amateur golf tournament this week-end when they travel to Dayton. The going will be plenty tough. On Monday, Thompson will play in another tournament alone.

Allen and Pearson

Every day in every way the trade Cleveland pulled in sending Monte Pearson to New York for Johnny Allen looks better. At the start of the season Allen was terrible and Pearson went to town for the Yanks, winning the No. 1 spot on the staff. Now Allen has reached a winning form and Pearson is taking his bumps.

Night for Ryba

Mike Ryba, who has not been going so well for the Red Birds, will have a "day" July 24—Kansas City will be the Columbus foe in the stadium in a night encounter. Ryba won the annual award of the Sporting News last year for the most valuable player in the league. He went to St. Louis at the start of the present season, but was returned. He has had a tough time getting going in a Columbus uniform—Ryba won 20 and lost eight for the Red Birds a year ago.

Macon to Go Up

Columbus has a young hurler now from whom much is going to be heard in years to come. He is Max Macon, cool and lion-hearted left-hander.

Reed Places Fifth

Curtis "Dutch" Reed, Chillicothe golfer, he won the National Elks trophy last summer, lost the prize this week in Los Angeles. The best Reed could do was fifth place, a west coast man knocking off the prize.

GRANVILLE PRO-AMATEUR PURSE MAY REACH $500

GRANVILLE, July 17.—(UP)—A prize list of $500 will be posted for a pro-amateur golf tournament at the Granville Inn course here Sept. 14.

The tournament, an 18 hole event, will be under the sponsorship of the Central Ohio Professional Golfers Association.

Bill Campbell, Granville professional, said all the outstanding professional and amateur stars of the state had signified their intention of competing.

Merle Oberon, Ellsworth Vines on Smith Ballew's Hour Saturday

NIESEN AND JOE COOK HAVE PART IN 8:30 AIRING

Wife of Tennis Champion to Tell Fay How Fred Perry Beat German

Merle Oberon, Australian-born screen actress, and Ellsworth Vines, one of the greatest international tennis professionals of all time, are among Smith Ballew's guests on the weekly Chateau broadcast over the WEAF-NBC network at 8:30 p. m. (EST) Saturday.

Soulful melodies by Gertrude Niesen, husky-voiced singer of popular songs and New York musical revue favorite, and the inimitable Joe Cook in a new comedy sketch are other high-spots of the show.

Miss Oberon's vehicle has not been chosen, but she will probably do a dramatic sketch from one of her stage or screen roles. A newcomer to the films, Miss Oberon recently scored tremendous hits in "The Dark Angel," with Herbert Marshall and Fredric March; and "These Three" with Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea.

Joe Cook, frequently heard in comedy roles on the air, has a hilarious new sketch for the Chateau broadcast this week.

Miss Niesen is one of the singing stars of the show, along with Ballew and the Golden Shell Girls, who are heard every week on this broadcast.

Ellsworth Vines, in an interview, will describe high-lights and exciting moments of his own tennis career and discuss generally the international game of tennis.

Victor Young's band will provide modern dance tunes and the musical accompaniments.

HELEN VINSON GUEST
Helen Vinson, the talented motion picture actress who in private life is the wife of Fred Perry, Number One amateur tennis player of the world, will be the guest of Francis Anthony Fay on his broadcast, Friday. The program is heard at 7:30 p. m. (EST) over a WJZ-NBC network each Friday evening.

Miss Vinson arrived from Europe this week on the liner Normandie. She is scheduled to tell Mr. Fay just how her husband defeated Baron von Cramm for the unofficial world championship at the Wimbledon tournament recently. It is expected, however, that the program will develop into something of a story-telling sensation since Fay is considered to be no mean tennis player himself, and has scalps of many worthy opponents tacked to his racquet press.

The high-hearted elf of the ether, in addition to chatting with Mrs. Perry, will sing several new songs "a la Fay" to the accompaniment of Bobby Dolan's orchestra.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A vigorous, action-filled Western drama pictured in the up-to-the-second setting of a modern manhunt brings Harry Carey, Hoot Gibson, Margaret Callahan, Henry B. Walthall and Tom Tyler to the Cliftona Theatre in "The Last Outlaw." Friday and Saturday on a double bill.

Starring Carey and Gibson, this RKO Radio picture tells—with effective punctuations of fists, hurting automobile chases, spectacular riding and gun battles—the adventures of an old western desperado who, twenty-five years after his last law-defying escapade, takes to his guns again to wipe out a mob of city gangsters.

The other half of this outstanding double bill is the comedy hit "AND SO THEY WERE MARRIED" starring Mary Astor and Melvyn Douglas.

MRS. CREIGHTON, APPEGATE PAY IN DEATH CHAIR

neases agreed that she was unconscious. Her head lolled limply over her right shoulder. Her eyes were closed. Her fat cheeks, once notable for their rosy color but now chalk white, sagged heavily into the creases of her neck.

It was stiflingly hot in the death chamber when, with a little rush, two white aproned matrons pushed open the door through which the condemned come from their cells. The wheel chair rolled in on their heels. The Rev. John T. McCaffery, Catholic prison chaplain who had baptized Mrs. Creighton in the Roman faith and heard her confession two hours earlier, walked behind the two guards.

The room was so quiet that when Robert Elliott, veteran executioner, lifted a leather helmet out of a bucket of brine the drip of water was a startling noise.

Six guards in blue shirts rushed forward to surround the wheel chair as though deliberately to conceal the unconscious woman from sight. Mrs. Creighton wore a pink, silk night dress, cut away deeply in front, and a black silk kimono. Her legs were bare. Soft, brown bedroom slippers were on her feet. Her hair, not clipped as is usual for electrocutions, was knotted loosely at the back of her head.

Two big guards lifted her into the electric chair. Warden Lewis E. Laves, an enemy of capital punishment, stood by silently. Elliott took only a moment to buckle the electrode to Mrs. Creighton's legs, and clamp the helmet over her head.

SOLONS RETURN NEXT WEEK FOR RELIEF BALLOT

COLUMBUS, July 17.—(UP)—Unable to muster enough votes to pass the bill to finance poor relief funds in Ohio for next month, the legislature quit work today until next week.

Each house will hold a skeleton session to make possible appointment of a new joint committee to consider relief legislation. This committee is to work over the week-end.

The house will return Monday night. The senate may return then, too, but no definite day has been set.

The relief problem rapidly is approaching a crisis in several counties. Hopes of legislative leaders that the problem could be solved by passage of the so-called "permanent" bill, and the present special session adjourned, were shattered last night when both houses rejected the report of a conference committee.

BRITAIN HONORS KING'S RESCUER

ulary, and expressed the official appreciation of Dick's heroism.

Principal Witnesses

Scotland Yard men, all praising Dick for his instantaneous reaction in an emergency, said that he would be a principal witness against McMahon, who will appear, probably in Bow street police station, on remand a week from today.

To McMahon's wife, the drama that made a hero of Dick and further endeared King Edward to his people meant that her life seemed shattered. She visited McMahon early this morning in his cell at Brixton prison in South London. She is a brunette with dark, sad eyes.

"I did not know anything about it until I picked up an evening paper yesterday," she said. "When I read the story I could hardly believe it. I rushed home from my work. (She is employed in a dress making shop.) My husband left home as usual yesterday morning, and seemed his old self. I can not understand why this happened."

The McMahons are childless. They are known to their neighbors as most reserved, and no one could tell much about them. They took a one room apartment in the basement of a house in Westbourne Terrace, in North London, 18 months ago. They said that he was pleasant, devoted to his wife, and of an idealistic type. Some had heard also that he seemed to have a persecution mania, and wrote frequently to Scotland Yard, complaining against the police. McMahon came here from Scotland several years ago.

This morning Dick went to work and hurried out on his sales rounds to avoid questioners.

King Edward rose early at his country place at Fort Belvedere, motored in to town, and with his secretaries examined some of the hundreds of messages which arrived from all over the world congratulating him on his escape. Then he plunged into a stack of routine state papers and other official documents.

FRENCH FOREST FIGHTER DEFIES ONTARIO FLAMES

SUDBURY, Ont., July 17.—(UP)—Supplied with food and water, Jules Beaulieu, intrepid forest scout, remained in his 90-foot observation tower today directing fire fighters battling a forest fire which was burning itself out.

He refused to leave the flame scarred tower, in which he had been marooned without food and drink, until the raging timber and bush fire had been brought under control.

Fellow rangers said that Beaulieu was in no danger. A crew of 11 men had fought their way to the tower and brought supplies. Four of the rescuers remained with Beaulieu at his post, which is deep in the north Ontario woods 17 miles southwest of here. While the rescuers stood guard reporting progress of the cracking fire, the 32-year-old ranger slept well last night. They sent out frequent dispatches to other tower observers, assuring them that everything was all right atop the second tower.
